

Yesterday after returning from Sviatohirsk we went to visit Natasha at her home where she fixed a lunch of potatoes, chicken cutlets and bread that she had made. For a desert we had a lemon bread with poppy seeds and a lemon frosting. That and some tea made for a wonderful meal. We returned to the church building and Ava, right away went, into Kate's class to help. I went to the market to get some supplies I know it seems like we do this every day but this is just how it is. About 5:30 people started dropping by to visit and we sat out some sliced hard sausage and a cinnamon cake the Larisa made for us. At one point we had ten or more present. The room was filled with laughter and we enjoyed everyone so very much. Afterwards, Ava did some laundry and I did some reading. I hope you enjoy the pictures today from Sviatohirsk

View of Monastery from across the river.

This is the oldest part of the Monastery.

Another view from across the river

Hotel room

Isn't often you find a door you want a picture of.